REPORT ON MARINE PERSONNEL REGULATIONS WORKSHOP

This year's Marine Personnel Regulations workshop, organized by the Sectorial Committee and held in Québec City on February 21, was, once again, a success! More than 67 people participated in this activity, which was open to all members of the Québec maritime community. For this 9th edition, we were fortunate enough to work with Transport Canada's Mario Lavoie, Annie Larouche and Bernard Leclerc, the workshop's main presenters. Alain Auclair of the IMQ's Centre de formation aux mesures d'urgence (CFMU - emergency measures training centre) also gave a conference.

Consult the workshop agenda here (in French)

A report on the workshop will soon be available on our website, at the Regional Marine Advisory Council (RMAC) meeting in March and the Canadian Marine Advisory Council (CMAC) meeting in May.

We would like to thank the Transport Canada representatives for their excellent collaboration and availability again this year!

The Sectorial Committee is offering the opportunity to display your logo on our website at all times to enhance your visibility among our visitors.

INTERESTING MEETINGS AT THE IMQ INTERNSHIPS FAIR!

The 8th Institut maritime du Québec (IMQ) internships fair ran on January 31 and February 1 in Rimouski. The Sectorial Committee was on hand to tell students about its mission and the tools available to them. Many meetings were very enriching and most promising where the new generation of marine-sector workers is concerned!

Once again, the Sectorial Committee ran its contest to attract students to its booth. Participants were asked to take a "selfie" with the Committee's booth and publish it on Instagram, complete with #csmoim and @csmoim. Congratulations to Alex Desaulniers and David Marmen, the two Institut maritime du Québec students who participated and won a $50 gift card for the Shaker bar-restaurant in Rimouski!

REPORT ON INTRODUCTION TO NAVIGATING PERSONNEL CERTIFICATION TRAINING

On February 22, the training session Introduction to Navigating Personnel Certification ran in Québec City. Nicolas Parent, Senior Consultant with CPCS, assisted by Susan Falkner, Sectorial Committee Training Coordinator, welcomed 18 participants, who were eager to learn more about Navigation Officer and Marine Engineer certification.

Participants thoroughly enjoyed the day-long training session, which enabled them to learn more about the training of their different crew members, papers and certification.

SEE YOU AT THE 2018 JOB FAIR IN APRIL!

On April 6 and 7, the Sectorial Committee will run a booth at the job fair to be held at the Centre de foires d'ExpoCité in Québec City. We will have a list of different marine-sector career options along with numerous job offers from partner companies, and will be happy to provide information and answer your questions.

WHY NOT WELCOME AN INTERN TO YOUR ORGANIZATION THIS SUMMER?

The organization Montréal Relève, which literally means “new generation of workers in Montréal”, is mandated to implement initiatives designed to introduce young people to the job market. Its “Classes Affaires” project encourages companies in the Montréal area to take on students for short-term summer internships.

Internships can take one of two forms:

- A one-week internship in a single company, allowing two or more young people to learn about the company's various departments and related careers;
- A career week during which a group of about a dozen young people will spend a discovery day in a different company every day.

Please contact Program Coordinator Mathilde Locatelli for further information.
