FEEDBACK ON 2019 MARINE PERSONNEL REGULATIONS WORKSHOP

The Sectorial Committee organized and held the Marine Personnel Regulations Workshop on February 20 in Québec City. This year's edition was another rousing success! More than 60 people participated in this activity offered to all members of the Québec maritime community. The year 2019 marks the 10th anniversary of this very popular event and, once again, we were fortunate to be able to work with Mario Lavoie, Annie Larouche and Bernard Leclerc of Transport Canada, the Workshop's main presenters.

The Workshop minutes will soon be available on our website and Sectorial Committee Executive Director Claude Mailloux will present a summary at the Regional Marine Advisory Council (RMAC) meeting in March and the Canadian Marine Advisory Council (CMAC) meeting in April.

Our sincere thanks to the Transport Canada representatives for their excellent collaboration and availability again this year!

NAVIGATING PERSONNEL CERTIFICATION AND GENERAL SHIPPING KNOWLEDGE TRAINING SESSIONS ARE BACK!

These two popular training sessions will be back in April!

Make sure to sign up for our Training and Events infoletter to receive the invitations and details in the coming weeks!

MATERNITY LEAVE COMING UP!

Just a heads-up to tell you that I'll temporarily be leaving my duties as Sectorial Committee Communications Officer on March 22, 2019 for a one-year maternity leave. I'm thrilled to be expecting my second little bundle of joy in April!

The Sectorial Committee is pleased to welcome Laurence Jolicoeur, who will replace me from March 2019 to March 2020. I'll be on hand to help her transition into the job in the last weeks of March so that the Sectorial Committee's activities are not affected.

See you in March 2020!

REPORT ON OUR PARTICIPATION AT THE IMQ INTERNSHIPS FAIR AND QUARIERA!

On January 30 and 31, Susan and Josée-Ève participated in the Institut maritime du Québec's (IMQ) 9th internships fair in Rimouski. In addition to taking part in the various activities organized to celebrate the IMQ's 75th anniversary with the marine-sector organizations on hand, the two Sectorial Committee representatives were able to meet with the 275 students enrolled in the school's four study programs. The venture was conclusive once again: the students are increasingly aware of the Sectorial Committee's existence, thanks to our social media campaign Embarque. Those preparing to graduate were very enthusiastic about the continuing education services the Sectorial Committee offers after they have completed their studies. A very win-win, but highly enriching, edition!

Continuing in the marine-sector careers promotion vein, on February 21, the Sectorial Committee team participated, for the first time, in the Quariera event held at Québec City's Hôtel le Concorde. This annual rendez-vous for employment professionals was a very interesting platform for the marine industry. From 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Susan and Josée-Ève introduced these potential spokespersons to the marine sector's various trades, occupations and training sessions. The event was successful and allowed us to meet hundreds of employment professionals who will be able to better inform their clienteles about these promising careers within our industry.

WHY NOT TAKE ON A YOUNG INTERN NEXT SUMMER?

As its name suggests, Montréal Relève (next generation Montréal) is an organization whose goal is to implement initiatives to introduce the younger generation to the job market. Its Student Business program offers companies in the Montréal area the opportunity to welcome students aged 14 to 17 for short summer internships (1 week).
